Message From The Rabbi

In Ethics of the Fathers we read: Rabbi Chanina, the deputy high priest, said, "Always pray for the welfare of the government. If people did not fear it, they would swallow each other alive."

This rather extreme statement comes from a Rabbi who probably lived at a time of anarchy and feared anarchy more than any evil a government might do. But it lies at the root of our custom to pray for the government of the country in which we live.

Remember Fiddler on the Roof? "Rabbi, is there a proper blessing for the Czar? Yes. May G-d bless and keep the Czar--far away from us!" But I have seen prayer books from Czarist Russia that include a real prayer for the welfare of the Czar, recited every Shabbat and Yomtov, despite the fact that the Czarist government was responsible for more persecution of the Jews than almost any other government of the time, and is indeed the reason that most of our families came to the United States.

I have also seen prayer books from the former Soviet Union containing a prayer for the Communist government that was doing all in its power to stamp out religion!

In pre-World-War II-Poland, there were synagogues in which the Cantor would chant prayers to the melody of the Polish national anthem on the Shabbat closest to May 3, Polish Constitution Day, and Polish government officials would be in attendance. One can be sure that some, at least, in the community had mixed feelings about this display of patriotism.

In so many of these countries the prayer for the government was recited out of custom or habit or obligation or fear. No such doubt can ever attach to our prayers for the United States and its government. We are told that Yogi Berra, when told that the Mayor of Dublin was Jewish, remarked: "Only in America." For us Jews, the Yiddish phrase "Nor in America" - "Only in America" has been a refrain that fully expresses our feelings about this country. America is unique for Jews, for all its people. As one who was not born here, I can testify how different it feels, not just to live here, but to be a Jew here. Growing up in England, I would always be asked about my name, how it was pronounced, where it came from. I was a curiosity, an anachronism. When the pianist Artur Rubinstein found himself without a country after the Nazis invaded Poland, two countries, France and the United States, offered him a home. He chose this country, saying: "My name doesn't sound funny in America. My kind built America."

I say this, fully aware of the murderous attacks on Jews in synagogues here in the last year, the growing antisemitism that infests the internet, and the very bad public statements of some in high places. But at the same time, all surveys show that antisemitic attitudes of the American public at large have fallen and are just about the lowest they have ever been. It is the fringes, the minority, for whom the internet has been a godsend (or should I say a devils end), allowing them a megaphone to broadcast their foul views and to find fellow-haters in different parts of the country. At a time when, alas, the sound of antisemitism is heard again all over the world, I am convinced that, apart from Israel, this country that we love is still the best place in the world for Jews.

Remember, again, of all countries in the West, this one alone never expelled the Jews, never placed them in ghettoes. European history is littered with dates on which Jews were driven out of countries or driven into ghettoes. England expelled them in 1290 and only readmitted them in 1656. It was only in the 19th century that Jews were allowed to enter Parliament or the older universities. Other European countries have similar histories.

Message From Kol Emeth's President

It is my pleasure to extend Summer greetings to all of our Kol Emeth community and as the cycle of our year marches forward we begin to think of the coming events of our religious year.

However let us not get too far ahead of ourselves for every week brings new events and even surprises. It is rather remarkable to me how each of our Shabbat services seems so often be appropriate to the events of the world and serve to focus us towards the remarkable wisdom of our tradition which though Divinely inspired is so clearly grounded in our mutual human concerns. As an example I would like to relate a true event that occurred many years ago in the closing months of Mikdosh El Hagro in Evanston.

Years ago it was becoming apparent to us at Mikdosh El Hagro that, sadly, our synagogue of rich history was approaching it's final months. With an aging and dwindling membership and the illness of our beloved Rabbi Morris Fishman our dissolution seemed inevitable. Never the less we soldiered on each week sharing the duties of the service in the absence of our nonagenarian Rabbi who had remained so vital despite his advanced age. On the particular Shabbas that I am recounting we were gathered and waiting to see if our number would eventually reach that sufficient to continue the service. At what seemed the final moment the chapel door opened and in came an gentleman clearly of African origin who was visiting Evanston that week from his home in New York. His name was David and his origin from Ethiopia. We had our quorum and our service could continue. We reached the Torah service and managed with difficulty to get through the entire Torah reading for that week which Rabbi Fishman always had done with such great ease and facility. I would do the Haftorah which I really had not had a chance to review ahead of time. It was from Amos 9:7 and began " Are you not as the sons of Ethiopia to Me, O children of Israel?"

Indeed every week can bring with it unique events, surprises, and perhaps even a minor miracle. It seems so to me and I encourage all who can to attend our Shabbas services either Friday night or Saturday morning as often as possible. Any passing angels included.

The United States was, and is, a unique experiment not just in its system of government but also in its treatment of Jews. Here we have never been strangers, but always full and equal citizens. While individuals have discriminated against Jews in the past, the government has had no part of this. In the words of George Washington's letter to the Touro synagogue: "For happily the Government of the United States, which gives to bigotry no sanction, to persecution no assistance, requires only that they who live under its protection, should demean themselves as good citizens."

Rabbi Barry Schechter

Thank you!

Since 2010 the Old World theatre Company has been presenting a season of plays each year for the congregation having just concluded its 9th season very successfully. It has presented over 40 productions for the enjoyment and cultural programming of the congregation during that time and prior to that presenting a number of readings from authors as Sholom Aleichem, Bella Chagall and Molly Goldberg.

Quality productions such as The Diary of Anne Frank, Awake and Sing, Driving Miss Daisy, Sorry Wrong Number, A View from the Bridge, Dracula, The Last Night of Ballyhoo, The Golden Age of Radio, Dial M For Murder, Of Mice and Men, Master Harold and the Boys, Laughter on the 23rd Floor- the cabarets-and dozens more plays are among the many we have produced during these years.

It has been a joy to support the synagogue as well financially during that time with ticket sales raising over $5,000 annually for the synagogue. We wish to thank the many members of the synagogue who have supported us from the beginning with their very positive energy, their attendance -many sold out shows- and their love and friendship. You have been a terrific audience. We will no longer be presenting seasons of plays but occasionally perhaps a reading. In the meantime thank you from all the members of the company – you have endeared yourselves to us and your friendships shall always be cherished.

As always,

Love,

Bill Raffeld Artistic Director

Sisterhood News

Sisterhood is trying a new concept this year which we hope everyone will enjoy. The sisterhood membership luncheon will be held September 12, 2019 at Shallots Bistro, 7016

Carpenter Rd. Skokie, IL instead of in the CKE social hall. Sisterhood members and their friends will be treated to a fine kosher luncheon and be entertained by cabaret singer Carla Gordon singing show tunes, Yiddish songs, and songs sung by the late Sofie Tucker. Mark your calendar. More information coming soon.

If you haven't signed up through the weekly email for the Halim Museum field trip scheduled for July 30, 2019 you should have received a post card in your mail as a reminder.

Tu B'Av, the Jewish Day of Love

The 15th day of Av is both an ancient and modern holiday. This year Tu B'Av is August 16th.

Tu B'Av, the 15th Day of Av, is both an ancient and modern holiday. Originally a post-biblical day of joy, it served as a matchmaking day for unmarried women in the Second Templeperiod (before the fall of Jerusalem in 70 C.E.). Tu B'Av was almost unnoticed in the Jewish calendar for many centuries but it has been rejuvenated in recent decades, especially in the modern state of Israel. In its modern incarnation it is gradually becoming a Hebrew-Jewish Day of Love, slightly resembling Valentine's Day in English-speaking countries.

There is no way to know exactly how early Tu B'Av began. The first mention of this date is in the Mishnah (compiled and edited in the end of the second century), where Rabban Shimon ben Gamliel is quoted saying:

There were no better (i.e. happier) days for the people of Israel than the Fifteenth of Av and Yom Kippur, since on these days the daughters of Israel/Jerusalem go out dressed in white and dance in the vineyards. What were they saying: Young man, consider whom you choose (to be your wife)? (Ta'anit, Chapter 4)

Origins of the Date

The Gemara (the later, interpretive layer of the Talmud) attempts to find the origin of this date as a special joyous day, and offers several explanations. One of them is that on this day the Biblical "tribes of Israel were permitted to mingle with each other," namely: to marry women from other tribes (Talmud, Ta'anit30b). This explanation is somewhat surprising, since nowhere in the Bible is there a prohibition on "intermarriage" among the 12 tribes of Israel. This Talmudic source probably is alluding to a story in the book of Judges (chapter 21): After a civil war between the tribe of Benjamin and other Israelite tribes, the tribes vowed not to intermarry with men of the tribe of Benjamin.

It should be noted that Tu B'Av, like several Jewish holidays (Passover, Sukkot, Tu Bishvat) begins on the night between the 14th and 15th day of the Hebrew month, since this is the night of a full moon in our lunar calendar. Linking the night of a full moon with romance, love, and fertility is not uncommon in ancient cultures.

For almost 19 centuries — between the destruction of Jerusalem and the re-establishment of Jewish independence in the State of Israel in 1948 — the only commemoration of Tu B'Av was that the morning prayer service did not include the penitence prayer (Tahanun).

In recent decades Israeli civil culture promotes festivals of singing and dancing on the night of Tu B'Av. The entertainment and beauty industries work overtime on this date. It has no formal legal status as a holiday — it is a regular workday — nor has the Israeli rabbinate initiated any addition to the liturgy or called for the introduction of any ancient religious practices. The cultural gap between Israeli secular society and the Orthodox rabbinate makes it unlikely that these two will find a common denominator in the celebration of this ancient/modern holiday in the foreseeable future.
